

Rapiscan Secure 1000: Recent Media Coverage and Reports

US FDA Says Health Risks From Airport Scanners Are ‘Minuscule’

<http://www.fda.gov/Radiation-EmittingProducts/RadiationEmittingProductsandProcedures/SecuritySystems/ucm227201.htm>

The President’s White House Science Advisor, Phil Larson supports the safety of backscatter imaging;

read more at “Backscatter Back-Story” on the White House Office of Science and Technology Blog

<http://www.whitehouse.gov/blog/2010/11/08/backscatter-back-story>

The US TSA website discusses full body imaging and includes a list of documentation on the safety of full body imaging.

<http://www.tsa.gov/approach/tech/ait/index.shtm>

The UK DfT website has posted their Secure 1000 risk assessment study.

<http://www.dft.gov.uk/publications/assessment-of-comparative-ionising-radiation-rapiscan-security-scanner/>

American College of Radiology Statement on Airport Full Body Scanners and Aviation

http://www.acr.org/MainMenuCategories/media_room/FeaturedCategories/PressReleases/StatementonAirportFullbodyScanners.aspx

CBS News: TSA Airport Scanners: Radiation Truths and Lies

http://www.cbsnews.com/8301-504763_162-20023805-10391704.html

The Chicago Tribune reports on the installation of a Secure 1000 Single Pose in O’Hare airport.

<http://www.chicagotribune.com/video/c52c381f-378e-45ff-86dc-151f330a9b71/News/Full-body-imaging-machine-comes-to-O-Hare-International-Airport>